

Natalie is a Fashion Designer in Austin, Texas. She is a single mom with a toddler who doesn't always have a lot of time or money to cook dinner with her busy schedule.

In her off time, Natalie likes to spend time with her daughter so cooking is not her main priority. She is looking for something that will give her quick and easy recipe ideas that her and her daughter will love!

Natalie needs something that will give her recipes based on what she already has at home, is toddler friendly, and will let her choose how long she wants to take to cook the meal.

One of Natalie's coworkers Jane recommended this Recipe Generator app for your phone. She uses it at home for her children and says it's the best thing ever! "It really comes in handy after a long day with the kids. You get home and can find something so quickly, it makes the whole process so easy!" Jane says.

Natalie went ahead and downloaded the app to her phone. She now has the ability to upload everything in her pantry, choose what category of food she wants, how long she wants to take to cook the meal, look at video tutorials, save her favorite recipes and look at what others make on the feed!

Natalie used the app for the first time and the dinner came out amazing! She took photos of everything and posted it to her feed for the public to see! She loves being able to see what people say about certain recipes so she knows if they will like it.

Dan is a single, working dad with two growing children. As a grocery store cashier, he is only making so much money and finds it difficult to find cheap and healthy meal options for his family. Instead, he will typically find a fast-food restaurant since it is cheap and quick.
